As Defensive Coordinator, Bob has helped the Aggies to three Sweet 16s since 2014.

Widely considered one of the top minds in all of college basketball, Bob Starkey is in his eighth season as an assistant women's basketball coach at Texas A&M. Starkey has a decorated career, having been a part of 732 collegiate victories, 23 NCAA Tournaments, 10 trips to the Elite Eight and five straight trips to the Women's Final Four (2004-08), including serving as Acting Head Coach for LSU's 2007 Women's Final Four run.

One of the best defensive coaches in basketball, Starkey's teams have allowed an average of 56.6 points per game since 2004-05, and three of his players earned SEC Defensive Player of the Year honors. With Starkey on staff, the Aggies won the 2013 SEC Tournament, reached three Sweet 16s, and made the Elite Eight in 2014. He was at LSU for 22 seasons, where the Tigers reached the Final Four in five consecutive seasons and captured four SEC titles. Ten of his players have been drafted in the first round of the NBA and WNBA drafts.

Seven of his players were named NBA or WNBA All-Rookie during their first year in the league. Three of his players have won Olympic Gold Medals.

On the 3rd, Bob will discuss the importance of developing a positive attitude while developing approaches to winning competitive games. In doing so, he will address the Aggies upcoming 2019-20 season: the schedule, the team and how it works together to win games and championships.
